[GLADESBORO, VA. August 8.—The returns are not all in yet from the primary in Carroll county, but from all precincts heard from it seems that Tucker has carried the county by a small majority. There are also serveral precincts in the remote mountain section to hear from.

The following are the returns as reported by the county committee of the Democratic party for Mecklenburg county:

Mann, 378; Tucker, 470. Ellyson, 675; Caton, 147, Williams, 450; Catlett, 380. Brown, 387; Koiner, 469. House of Delegates. Roberts, 420; Read, 410.

ALEXANDRIA, V.A., August 8,—Returns from Alexandria county give Catlett 83 and Williams, 179. For Commissioner of Agriculture, Kolner carries the county by a majority of 12. The vote was: Kolner, 142; Brown, 179.

12. The vote was: Koiner, 142; Brown, 120.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LANCASTER. VA., August S.—Contrary to expectation, the vote in the primary election here Thursday was the largest ever cast in a Democratic primary in this county. The combined vote of the two rival candidates for Governor was 595, that being 121 more votes than Bryan received last November, and 5 more than the combined vote for Bryan and Taft. The largest vote, however, was that cast for Wellford and Curiett, rival candidates for the House of Delegates, the aggregate being 634, just 44 more than the combined Democratic and Republican vote for President in 1968. This remarkable result some persons undertake to explain on the assumption that many white Republicans voted in the primary, and that the Anti-Saloon League polled its solid strength for Judge Mann. There was no pledge on the ticket voted here. Mr. Curlett, the defeated candidate for the House of Delegates, was here yesterday talking to friends and taking his defeat philosophically. For some time before the election he realized that he had but slight chance of getting the nomination, but he made a stout fight to the end. In talking with The Times-Dispatch correspondent one week before the primary he estimated his majority in this county at about 120. His actual majority at about 120. His actual majority in Lancaster was 114, while Wellford carried Richmond county by 194.

When the engagement was finally admitted at an end, Mrs. Klein thought it was mean of the man who had courted her to send a bill for $\frac{1}{2}$ street and place it in the hands of a constable for collection. This bill included odd jobs done about the Klein house, It also included small sums of money lent, repairing the shoes of his betrothed and those of her grandchildren, cash spent for garden seed and "for sprinkling the garden for one month, one hour per day, at 10 cents per hour, $\frac{2}{3}$."

The rumor was based on the fact that J. P. Morgan, who is supposed to know all there is to be known of steel, had been entertained at Windsor Castle by the King while abroad, and that an order to buy 50,000 shares of steel common, coming apparently from an English source, was executed when the stock was at from 50 to 52 recently.

The stock sold yesterday at 76¼, and those who credited the English monarch with the deal estimated that he realized $1,000,000 on the transaction. The report could not, of course, be confirmed from any reliable source. firmed from any reliable source.

Week's Trial of Prohibition in South Carolina Shows It to Be Somewhat of Farce.

Drastic Bills Will Be Passed in Alabama in Next Few Days,

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
COLUMBIA, S. C., August 8.—A week's trial of prohibition forces the conclusion that it is somewhat of a farce in South Carolina, In Columbia there have been selzures from social clubs alone amounting to about \( \tilde{n}\),000 bottles of beer and seventy gallons of whiskey. In Charleston, a seaport city, the selzures from blind tigers have totaled 5.400 bottles of beer, sixty-eight gallons of whiskey and 300 gallons of keg beer.

The first night after the pxohibition law went into effect four social clubs were raided here, resulting in the selzure of 4,000 bottles of beer and fifty gallons of whiskey. Raids have been either attempted or successfully carried out cach day in Columbia and a popular point of view, was the young Carevitch. The latter's fondness for the drum and rifle which President Fallleres, of France, gave him, his anxiety to climb on top of a motorcar, and his generally exuberant good spirits all have been a matter of much newspaper comment.

One story which may be quoted is youched for as true by a usually veracious correspondent. During the family luncheon party aboard the Victoria and Albert the Carevitch broke in upon the conversation of his electrs by shouting: "Grandpa."

King Edward, putting on a frown, king Edward, putting on a frown, reproved him with: "Little boys should be seen and not heard."

There was general silence, but after a minute or two the King, to conside the child, asked: "Well, what is it? What do you want to say?"

UNCONCERNED, WALKED TO DEATH ON GUILLOTINE

Dreaded Machine, Erected in Early Morning by Flickering Light of Candle, Had No Terror for French Murderer.

FARIS, August 8.—The French mind being pre-eminently logical, it is difficult to believe that it will not demand a change in the method of carrying out executions. The law demands that they be publicly performed in a public place. In practice no member of the public, strictly speaking, saw anything of the execution of Duchemin on Thursday morning, the only eye-witnesses being about fifty journalists, a dozen mounted gendarmes, and twenty policemen.

The difficulty in finding a place for the guillotine since the Roquette prison was pulled down has always been put forward as an excuse for the practical abolition of capital punishment which Paris has enjoyed or suffered for the last ten years. That this difficulty does not exist was shown on Thursday when the guillotine was received in the middle of the 300-yard walk of the Sante prison. It stood in the centre of four chestnut trees belonging to the double line of trees that nothing overlooked the spot.

The only drawback was that there was no door to the prison on this side. The only drawback was that there was no door to the prison on this side.
